No surprise is expressed at the Admiralty at the Tokio report of the evidence contained in intercepted Russian dispatches that the Hatsuse was blown up by Russian stationary mines. The officials decline, however, to comment on the subject, ex-cept to reiterate their denial of the charge (Kwan-Tien) to Salmatsza lends color to that the Russians used floating or "driv-ing" mines, which the officials have insisted on from the outset.

In this connection a nava! attache of a great power declares that his government is in possession of the best information to from Saimatsza. It is conceivable that they might have been defeated, but not Rennenkampf's men patrolling the Ai-Yang region, who are veterans of that old command which accompanied him on the famous ride through Manchuria. These men are esteemed here as the hardest riders and the most reckless fighters in the trans-Baikal army. Any disaster to them would have a greater sentimental effect than the most serious reverse at Kin-Chou.

COSSACKS RIDE ALMOST TO THE GATES OF SEOUL

ST. PETERSBURG, May 30 .- The correspondent of the Russky Invalid (the army organ) with General Mistchenko's division of 5,000 Transbaikal Cossacks sent to Korea to keep in touch with the enemy gives a detailed account of a ride destined to become classic in cavairy annals. The command rode 400 miles in a fortnight. They approached to within a day's march of Seoul RUSSIA IS MAKING and were anxious to capture the town. which would have been an exploit, the correspondent says, to thrill Europe, but im-perative orders reached them to retire, and they reluctantly rode back to Wiju.

LITTLE GIRL AIDS IN CAPTURE OF A ROBBER

Then Screams for Assistance.

PASSAIC. N. J., May 30 .- The remark-Frank Miles, of Howe avenue, this city, sneak thief of Philadelphia, whom she discovered ransacking the upper rooms of her home. After grappling with the little girl and escaping through the front door, Wells was pursued ten blocks by citizens, caught and turned over to the police.

Marion returned home from school earlier than usual and found that her mother had gone out. As sne entered the front hall, she heard footsteps in the room upstairs. She tiptoed upstairs and saw the shaflow of a man in her mother's room. Fearlessly she entered the room and found it in chaos. Contents of the drawers were scattered on the floor and on the bed, over which, the thief was standing intently examining boxes and packages. "What do you want here?" asked the little girl in quiet tones that startled the thief, who dashed toward the window. The little girl grappled with him, at the same time shouting for help. The man shook her off and started to go downstairs. The girl got ahead of him and, rushing to the front door, slammed it shut.

Wells made for the dining room. I wo blows aimed at her by the thief put Marion on the defensive, and she lifted the heavy carving knife from the table and "If you try to take any of that silverware or hit me again I will strike you with this knife. As the man made an attempt to get, out of the front door the girl grappied with him again, but he cast her aside and dashed into the street, with the girl in close pursuit. Several men heard the girl's cries for help and started after the man. They caught him ten blocks away and held him until the arrival of a policeman.

At a hearing Wells denied the charge of breaking, entering and larceny made against him, and was committed to jail in default of $5,000 bail.

Wells said that his home was in Vine street, Philadelphia, but refused to give the number, as he said that his family was prominent in society and that his arrest would disgrace them. SCHOOL AND OTHER BUILDINGS BURNED

OF DECISIONS IN DISPUTE

Terms of Settling Controversy Between British and Venezuelan Government.

OUTLINE OF HIS FINDING

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 30.-Frank Plumley, of Vermont, one of the most prominent of the laymen attending the General Conference of the Methodist Church, according to the Times, has just forwarded to the British and Venezuelan governments, through their respective ambassadors, his decision as umpire in the dispute between these countries. Eleven different countries were involved, including Great Britain, Germany, Italy, Holland, Spain, Mexico and the United

Great Britain, Holland and Venezuela joined in asking President Roosevelt to appoint an umpire to settle the points involved on which they could not agree. Mr. Plumley was the one selected to perform this delicate and important task.

Some of the questions which Mr. Plumley was called to decide were new international jurisprudence, and so he was permitted to started shortly before last midnight burned | take the evidence and briefs to this country over an area of half an acre at the corner for further consideration. Mr. Plumley, for the first time, outlines the results of his There were four awards, one involving a

These awards are the last to be made, and as by mutual agreement his decision is to be final and conclusive, the last ves-tige of the Venezuelan dispute, which learned diplomats at its inception feared might be the means of involving the many nations interested in an international war has now passed away. The first of the awards was in the cele-brated case between the Porto Cabello & Valencia Railroad, a powerful British company, and the Venezuelan government, which guaranteed a certain income which was not made good. The umpire made an award in favor of the company of $1,200,000. Most interesting from a legal standpoint was the decision in regard to a claim by Great Britain for interest at 5 per cent. upon awards made by a mixed commission in 1869, the convention constituting this commission having provided that the Venezuelan government should by its Congress make provision without delay for the payment of this award. There was a delay in Venezuela denied the right to collect interest, since there was no specific provision for it by the two governments. Mr. Plumley held that interest at the rate of 3 per cent., the Venezuelan statutory rate when no rate is named in the contract, should be allowed from the time when the Venezuelan Congress ratified the terms of the contract, accepted the findings of the commission and made the first payment on account. Regarding the dispute as to citizenship, the umpire sustained the construction of the Constitution of Venezuela, which insists that a man born of British parent in Venezuela was a Venezuelan by birth and domicile if he always resided there. In the last count Great Britain urged that in case of a British subject domiciled in Venezuela and who died there and who was married to a Venezuelan woman such widow became a British subject by such marriage and retained her standing after his death and could appear as a claimant for a cause accruing to her husband in his lifetime. The umpire denied this claim.

JOKE TAKES A SERIOUS TURN FOR SHORT TIME

A joke intended only for the conductor of an in-bound Union Traction car was last night turned upon the perpetrator, Frank Osbuin, 420 East Ohio street. Apparently in much distress. Osbuin told the conductor that he had recently got into trouble and that the local police department would be glad to get its hands on him.
